Fugazzi School Blazing a New Trail in the Business College Field and Hewlng Its Own Way

Promient educators of Kentucky nspected Fugazzi School the past week and appeared greatly surprised to know that such a wonderful business college has been built up in Lexington by Southern Brothers. Dr. W. J. Hutchins, president of Berea College, after looking over the entire school and finding out exactly what it was doing, said: "lt's simply marvelous," and Lexington should stand solidly behind a school that is rendering the service that this school is rendering to the peo ple of Kentucky.

Dr. Jonathan C. Day, who is lecturing for the Berea Foundation Fund, expressed his opinion along the same line of Dr. Hutchins. Other visitors were Mr. H. E. Taylor, Business Mannger, and Mrs. F. O. Clark, Dean of Vocational Training of Beren Coliege, who stated that Dr. Hutchins, the president of Berea, was so impressed with Southern Brothers' School nt Lexington that he used Southern Brothers' as an example in an address to the student body of Berea College expressing to them the marvelous success of this school and how it bas been accomplished by Southern Brothers.

Mr. William Yent, passenger agent of the C. & O. railroad, and Mr. W. B. Pearce, passenger agent of tho lilinois Central, were also visitors at this school the past week.

Miss Anna Chandler Goff, of the College of Music, paid the Fugazzi school n visit, stating that she had heard so many nice compliments about this institution that she wanted to see it, and after looking over the school she said it was everything that she had heard it to be and she wished it unlimited success.

Dr. E. J. Bulgin, accompanied by his choir, Messrs. Percy James, Rufus Perkins and Harry Box, visited the Fugazzi School the past week, where Mr. James and Mr. Box sang somo selections, after which Dr. Bulgin addressed the student body, and the chapel hall was so full that dozens of students had to stand along the wails in order to hear the speakpractically all business colleges in the had the most intelligent looking ence.

BIRD LOVERS ASKED TO AID IN BIRD COUNT THIS YEAR

The bird-counting work of the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, which was seriously decreased during the period of the war, is now being taken up more energetically, with the aid of many voluntary observers. Any interested persons who are familiar with the hirds of their respective localities can contribute data in connection with the survey, which will exten dover a number of years. The information which this study will furnish concerns not only the total hird population of the United States, hut also its fluctuations from year to year, and the effect of the present state and federal laws on the increase of game and insectivor-

Instructions for properly making a bird count will be sent, with report hlanks, to anyone upon application to the bureau of hiological survey. Officials hope that counts will be continned on all lands where they have bee npreviously made. It is especicounts indicating bird life on the plains, the deserts and in the southern and western states.

The height of the hreeding season should be chosen for this work. In comes about May 30. Near Boston it is about a week later, and south of cality the count should be made as soon as the hirds are well settled on their nesting grounds, but not until after the end of the migration season. What is wanted is to learn how many pairs of hirds actually nest within the selected areas. Birds that visit the area only for feeding purposes must not be counted. The hest time to make the count is early in the morning when male hirds are usually in full song, and each may safely be taken to represent a hreeding pair. A 40 to S0-acre tract should he selected, representing average farm conditions without an undne amount of woodland or orchard. Information is desired in detail as to the character of the land surveyed. The hureau hopes that many persons interested in hird life will make one or more counts this season.

The snelent races, struck with the noble aspect of the oak, have in all ages enveloped it in the clouds of their legends and carried it back to the remotest antiquity. Of this class was the holm oak, which in the days of Pliny still existed near Rome, on the trunk of which was an Etruscan inscription in letters of brass stating that before the existence of the Eternal city it was already the object of popnlar veneration. The Roman naturalist also asserts that in the environs of Heracles, in the kingdom of Pontus, there was a tradition that two oaka which overshadowed the altar of Juplter Stragins had been planted by Hercules. The origin of certain trees is jost in even remote antiquity.

The imposing terror of the Hercynian forest has deeply impressed all those who have described Germany. and Pliny and Tacitns especially. The aged oaks of its somher vales, where wandered the elk and the aurochs, especially aroused the admiration of the Roman historian. "The majestic grandenr of the oak in this forest," he says. 'surpasses all imaginable belief; this tree has never been touched with the ax; it is contemporary with the ereation of the world and appears to be the symbol of immortality"

RED COW UNDER SUSPICION

Silly English Superstition That Har Milk Would Maka the Hair of Baby Red.

A director of a London dalry company lold a correspondent recently at a dairy show a circumstance illustrating a belief that existed not long ago in connection with a cow's milk.

It was in the days when many London dairies kept a few cows at the back of the establishment, partly to give the impression that the daily milk supply was all derived from these cows, or to enable the proprletor to meet the wanta of his customers in special eases for infant feeding. The shop had been closed for the day, when a woman called to ask for new milk for a haby. This was aupplied.

Shortly after the woman called again and asked: "Can you tell me the color of the cow you took that milk from?' The owner of the eatablishment said he was not gulte sure, but would go and acc. He went and returned say-"It was a black cow, but why do you want to know?"

"Well, sir," she replied, "If it had been a red cow my mistress would have asked you to change the milk, as the haby would then have had red hair, atur of genius. His defense was fearand she does not want that."-London Morning Post.

The New Orleans observance of the aince its establishment in 1830, and is now numbered among the most brilllant of the public and social festivitles of the United States. His Majesty Rex, the king of the carnival, first rode at the head of a body of Arabic troops in honor of the Russian Grand Duke Alexis in 1872. The experiment was a auccess, and Rex became an established favorite. The "Mystle Orewe of Comus," however, antedates this portion of the carnival by some 15 years, for it was in 1857 that the first "Mystic Crewe" appeared in a fantastic night parade of gorgeous floats, manned by masked revelers. But so many additions have been made to the Mardl Gran that now Rex and Comus are only two features of a magnificent celebration which embraces the entire city.

Good Whistler Story.

"One of Whistler's stories was of Burne-Jonea and himself going to a country fair and wandering into a sideshow to see a tattoued lady—and he was afraid to say how many subjects were tattooed on her-on ona knee the American Eagle, on the other, the Union Jack, and on her back Leousrdo's Last Supper. And she really was amazing, and they enjoyed it hugely. Some four or five years afterward, la London, Burne-Jonea burst in upon Whistler, and told bim the same tattooed lady was at the Aquarluin, and they must go and see her again. And they went and she had grown very atout in the meanwhile and when they looked at the Last Supper, all the apostles were a broad grin."-From interesting to Learn That Marvelous Orator Was, After All, Much Lika the Ordinary Man.

We hear so much about the leonine appearance and the "godlike eloquence" of Daniel Webster that it is refreshing to read an anecdote that presents the mun in a more human and less imposing light. Once, says a chronicler of life in old Washington. Webster arrived late at a concert that the famous Jenny Lind was glvlng and entered just as she was to sing Hail Columbia as an encore. When she sang the first note Wehater jumped to his feet, and when she reached the chorus he joined bis powerful bass voice with bers. In vain Mrs. Webster tried to drag him back into his seat. He supported the singer in every chorua; and each time when the song was ended be made a deep bow to her and waved his hat. Miss Lind curtsled to him in return, and he bowed again. To the delight of the audience they continued the little comedy of etiquette for some time.

One day when Webster was going to make an address his wife brought their little son to hear hia father. The orator began in the thunderous tone for which he was famous. "Will any man dare to say-" he demanded and then paused to aweep his breathless audience with a Jovian glance,

But the climax of this awe-inspiring sentence was lost in a gale of laughter, for a wee voice promptly piped from the gallery: "Oh, no, papa, no, no!"-Youth's Companion.

He was an inestimable breath of fresh air that deranged the musly rooms of a criticism grown didactic and lifeless. Life and vigor were typified by his style-a sheen of sparkling phrases set in a rhythmical prose that borrowed much from his musical training.

He was well versed in the aeven arts, and if his knowledge of some of them was not always profound, his love of them was sincere, and the manner in which he criticized each one in terms of the other is a continued delight to his reader. His taste, entirely European in character, was rarely at fault. He was taken in by some things that were ephemeral, yet he rurely failed to notice each rising less and his article always stimulating. Never didactle, never pedantic, if he was found wanting in philosophical hallast he dld nossess that sense of esthetic value that the scholar too often lacks and that the critle must have. ### "Original Package."

In American constitutional law this menns the package in which goods are shipped from one state to another. The United States courts held that where an article is imported into one state from another, it does not lose the protection of the interstate commerce clause, while the original package remains unbroken and is the property of the importer. Interpretation of these decisions made it possible to evade atate laws by selling direct to the customers in "original packages." The importance of this is in its bearing on the sale of clgarettes and other commodities about which state laws differ.

HOW SOUND IS TRANSMITTED

Vibration of the Air Brings it to the Ear-Travala Faster in Summar Than in Winter.

Sound is transmitted to the ear by the vibration of the air. When one particle of air is made to vibrate it sets the adjacent particles to vibrating, and so a sound wave, if nol obstructed, passea in all directions from the sounding body. The calculated velocity of sound in the air when the temperature is at freezing point is 915.69 feet per aecond. When temperature increases, travela faster, and the rate has been calculated at a little more than one foot per second for each degree of rise in Fahrenheit's thermometer. Contrary to popular belief, sound travels faster in aummer than in winter, and in warm than in cold climates. It might be thought that sound would travel more slowly through a dense atmosphere, but the elasticity increases as rapidly as the density, and, therefore, the velocity of sound is not affected by varying density. The velocity of sound in water, when at the greatest density, ia 4.707.4 feet per second. The experiments by which this velocity was determined were made by M. Callaodin. in 1826, across the Lake of Geneva. from Rolle to Thonon, a distance of about nine miles. Water, therefore, transmits sound four times as faat as

NO OLD AGE PROBLEM HERE

Indiana of the Andes Mountaina Kill Those of Race Who Reach Fateful Limit.

Iligh in the fastnesses of the Andes mountains of Peru there lives a race which sets an age limit and killa ali of its people who reach the fateful mark. In each village an official is appointed to terminate the careers of persons who live too long.

Different communities, bowever, have different ideas as to what limit should be placed on human existence. In some places the only duty of the executioner appears to be to secure the presence of a man at his own fnneral in the "title role." If a person becomes ao ill that his funeral hecomes a certainty in the near future, a date is fixed for the same, and if the leading figure shows a disposition to be unpunctual, the village executioner takes the matter in hand. The Andes natives are of Indian descent, possibly from the Quichau Indians, according to scientists. They live in adobe hovels and are said never to remove their clothing. They are very sliy and have no diversions aside from chewing coca leaves, from wbich modern scientists extract cocaine.

a mere coincidence, I cannot say, but this is what bappened:

On a rallway station platform at some distance from me stood an immigrant family. The father carried no hundles, but the mother was loaded bundle reaembling a large week's wash tled up in a sheet. The other arm hore a weighty looking basket and a husky baby.

For about 20 minutes I looked on as that woman in sort of dumb patlence stood there motionless under that awful load. It was positively nerve-wracking to watch her, and finally I yelled to her, mentally: "For heaven's sake drop those hundles!"

Instantly the woman let go of the bundle, handed the baby to her husband, placed the banket on top of the big bundle, folded her hands over her stomach and heaved a sigh of relief .-Kansaa City Star.

Go Back to Fiftsenth Century.

If anything should astoniah ua about trees I) is their longevity. The life of animals is ephermeral compared to that of our trees. The pine and great chestnut can assuredly extend their existence to a term of 400 or 500 years. In the Island of Teneriffe are found many venerable pines and enormons ehestnut trees which in all probability were planted there by the conguistadores at the commencement of the Fifteenth century, the epoch of the invasion of the Island.

The former are distinguished from the others, owing to the conquerors having in their plety decorated them nearly all with little madonnas, which are still seen anspended to their boughs.

HELD SECRET OF HAPPINESS

John Wesley's Nearly Ninety Yeara Passed With Remarkably Few Periods of Depression.

There was John Wesley. Ilis "Journal," with its record of indefatigable labor, is one of the cheeriest books in the language. What a rare good time he had! When he was eighty-seven he could say, "I do not remember to have felt lowness of spirits for a quarter of an hour since I was born." For more than sixty years this indefatig-, able pleasure-seeker had been doing as he pleased. Up every day in time to preach at five o'clock in the morning; then over the hills or through the pleasant ianes to preach again at the time lazy citizens were ready for breakfast; off again, on horseback, or by chalse or in a lumbering stage coach, for more preaching. . . . Now and then facing a mob, or being wet through in a thunder storm, or stopping to get information in regard to some old ruin. Between sermons he refreshed his mind with all sorts and conditions of books. On the pleasant road to Chatham he reads Tasso's "Jerusalem Delivered." On the road to Aberdeen he loses, himself delightedly in the misty sublimities of Ossian, "Orlando Furioso" is good Saturday reading. The eager octogenarian confesses that "Astolpho's shield and horn and voyage to the moon, the lance that unhorses everyone, the all-penetrating sword, and I know not how many impenetrable helmets and sbields" are rather too much for his sober English imagination. Still, they afford an agreeable interlude in his missionary journeys. — Samuel Mc-Chord Crothers, in "Among Friends."

YOUTH NOT GOLDEN SEASON

Modern Writer Takes Issue With Others Who Have Dubbed It the Best Period of Life.

Following is from "The Way of All Fiesh," by Samuel Butler—not the Seventeenth century poet, but the Nineteeuth ceatury nevelist:

"To me it seems that youth is like spring, an overpraised season-delightful if it happen to be a favored one, but in practice very rarely favored and more remarkable, as a general rule, for bltling east winds than genial breezes. Autumn is the meliower senson, and what we lose tu flowers we more than gain in fruits. Fontelle, at the age of nlnety, being asked what was the happiest time of his life, said he did not know that he had ever been much happier than he theu was, but that perhaps his best years had been those when he was between fifty-five and seventy-five, and Dr. Johnson placed the pleasures of old age far higher than those of youth. True, in old age we live under the shadow of death, which, like a sword of Damocles, may desceud at any momeat, but we have so long found life to be an affair of being rather frightened than hurt, that we have become like the people who live under Vesuvius, and chance It without much misgiving."

Fireworks, and which should not be confounded with mere bonfires, were set off as spectacies and ceremonies during the reign of Henry VII, Henry VIII, Eilzabeth and other English monarchs. ### Barley Basis of Weight.

During the reign of Henry VIII standards of length and weight were established with actual grains of wheat and barley as a basis. Three barley corns were an inch, and from that was built up our table of inches, feet, ells (yards), perch and acre. One restriction was that the barley corn must be dry and taken from the middle of the car and laid end to end. Under this same system 30 grains of wheat made a pennyweight, and from that as a basis they worked out the Troy pound in which 12 ounces still make a pound. Originally the sizes of shoes were based upon grains of barley, and it is said that these are the same today as in the early days. There were 13 grains of barley to each size. "Furlong" is an old Engilsh word meaning "furrow long" and is based upon the length a furrow would be in a square ten-acre field.

Protein Foods.

When we cut projeht we consume in reality 18 or 20 substances, known as amino acids, each one of which may have quite special functions lu nutritiou. Some proteins are deficient in certain of these acids which are lacking in the proteins of corn and grain, and for that reason peanuts are an excellent supplement to a cereal diet, whether in the form of a meal or press cake fed with corn and cereal feeds to unimals or as a suppler to wheat protein when used wheat four in bread making.

SEASONAL GARDEN TIPS

Early biight, which is highly destructive to early potatoes, may be controlled by spraying the plants with Bordeaux mixture when they are from six to eight inches high.

About May 1 is the time to sow the wrinkled-seeded variety of peas. Planting Ihem about two and onehalf or three iaches deep is said to proiong the bearing period.

In piacing cabbage, tomato, egg plant or any other plants that are set in the garden, it is best to keep the ground level, according to gar deners at the College of Agriculture. This brings the roots of the plants nearer the water table and prevents excessive evaporation of moisture.

The Colorado potato beetle can be ey. controlled by dustlag the plants with paris green as soon as they come up. The dusting should be repeated as often as necessary.

This is the season of the year when it is necessary to keep the ground in good cultivation to prevent baking which often keeps many young plants from breaking through the soil. Much baking or crusting usuaiiy follows heavy rains.

in planting the large growing varieties of peas, it is a good idea to plant two rows about eight to tea inches adpart and then place the netting or sticks between the two. Economy in staking is thus made possible by making one row of net ting serve two rows of peas.

WHY LYING WASTES TIME

"One of the best ways of saving time is to tell the truth," says Mr. Harris. "It is amazing to me how people of aii kinds waste time by iying, or bluffing, or side-stepping, or trying to iet somebody For instance, someone comes into your office to ask for a job. You haven't anything for him and you know you won't have. But you hate to come out flatiy and teil him so; you say, 'I'm sorry I haven't anything just now; you might leave your name with me, and if anything turns

"You sldestep the unpleasant task of telling the truth, and what happens? A few weeks later your caller comes back to see if anything has turned up, and you have the whole thing to do over again. That is just one example of how we waste time by not stating the truth and getting it over with. You give a sigh of reor someone, in this manner. 'There!'
